

ALLIED DRIVE IN ITALY IMPERILS CASSINO

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie

YOU DON'T HAVE TO WAIT FOR D-DAY, if you're looking for martial romance and brave adventure, for you'll find them both in the latest effort of the Chinese to pull themselves out of the Japanese coils by the straps of their battle-worn boots.

That's the Salween river offensive in southwest China—one of the world's wild, primordial areas. The purpose of the drive is to restore China's land lifeline to India—the famous Burma road which, on its Chinese end, was hewed out through the mountain fastnesses largely with primitive tools in the hands of a host of men, women and children after the enemy had occupied their country's ports.

This column previously has cited the grave danger to China created by the powerful Japanese offensive along the Yellow river in the heart of the nation. This threatens Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's remaining slender resources.

China's problem is how to stand off this menace pending arrival of all-out Allied help. In order to hang on she must have supplies. Her only feasible communication with the outside world is by air to India. Aerial transport is moving much material, but she's in dire need of heavy equipment, like artillery, and that calls for ground transport, which means a highway to India.

So the celestials are seeking to solve their problem by an offensive with upwards of 20,000 men across the great Salween river, near where it crosses into Japanese held northern Burma. The objective is to drive the invaders out of that zone in cooperation with other Allied troops operating from bases in northeast India. That will permit a joining up of the severed end of the old Burma road in China with the new Ledo road which American engineers built up through India and then extended a considerable distance into the northern tip of Burma.

This Allied offensive, of which the Salween drive has become a part, is racing against time to complete the operation before the arrival of the monsoon deluge which is due shortly and will flood the country until autumn. If the Allies can't win the enemy quickly they may be able to effect a junction of the two roads before the monsoon gets too bad.

It's a vital effort for the cause of the United Nations, when we talk of restoring China's "lifeline" we don't use the phrase lightly. The Burma road—inadequate as it was to meet demands—was the isolated country's main artery. The Allies can't get along without China in the war against Japan.

THE CHINESE OFFENSIVE
Across the Salween is a bold undertaking. This river is one of the longest in that part of the world. It rises in Tibet and winds on through China and into Burma for over 1,500 miles. For much of the way it flows through gorges thou-

George Ade

George Ade, 78, Humorist And Author Is Dead

(By Associated Press)
BROOK, Ind., May 17.—George Ade, famed author and humorist whose literary career extended over half a century, died last night at the age of 78. He had been in a comatose condition since Saturday when he suffered his third heart attack within a week.

Ade had been ailing for almost a year, suffering a stroke last June which caused him temporary paralysis of one arm and one leg.

The Hoosier author, who once said his father sent him to an engineering school to prepare him for a literary career, had played on the world's funnybone through several media—newspapers, magazines, books, plays and movies.

Ade was best known perhaps for his satirical "Fables in Slang," the first of which appeared in 1897, 10 years after his graduation from Purdue university, where the Ross-Ade stadium bears his name.

His newspaper career began in Lafayette at $6 a week. He moved to Chicago to join the staff of the Morning News and his fraternity brother, cartoonist John T. McCutcheon, who once said their salaries could never quite catch up with their debts.

Later he went to work for the Chicago Record, where his foibles-laden character sketches on "Artie," "Pink Marsh" and "Doc Horne" began appearing in 1895.

The much-anthologized fables followed, and then a series of stage comedies, including "The Sultan of Sulu" and "The College Widow." Ade wrote silent film scenarios from 1921 to 1925.

He never had married and in one of his latest essays, "The Boys of Single Blessedness," he upheld bachelorhood in no uncertain terms.

Ade belonged to a period which saw Indiana's most brilliant literary stars in the ascendancy—among them Booth Tarkington and Meredith Nicholson, who have outlived their friends.

A sister, Mrs. Warren T. McCray of Kentland, widow of a former Indiana governor, survives, as well as several nieces and nephews.

2 SOLDIERS, WIVES HELD BY SHERIFF

EAST LEBERPOOL, May 17.—Two soldiers, Pvt. Robert Reynolds of West Point and Pvt. Chester Lucas of Claxson, Ga., are being held in the city jail here following their arrest by Sheriff George Hayes on a charge of possessing a stolen car which they were driving enroute to Reynolds' home in West Point.

Both soldiers were accompanied by their wives when taken into custody and claimed to have traded another automobile for the 1937 model car they were driving. Their wives were taken to Lisbon, where they will be cared for until arrangements can be made for them, Hayes said.

Further investigations revealed that both soldiers were absent without leave and are wanted by military authorities at a Georgia camp. Both were recently married and their wives are juveniles, according to the sheriff.

Lieut. Williams, Former Lisbon Boy, Is Prisoner

LISBON, May 17.—First Lieut. Robert Williams, formerly of Lisbon, is reported by the Red Cross as being held as a prisoner of war in Germany, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Williams of St. Petersburg, Fla., formerly of Lisbon.

Lieut. Williams is a veteran fighter pilot with more than 50 bombing missions to his credit. He was reported missing in a flight over Europe March 21.

U. S. AIRMEN STRIKE ANEW AT JAP BASES

Enemy Suffers Attacks Over 4,000 Mile Wide Arc, Reports Show

(By Associated Press)
U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, May 17.—A sledgehammer blow by Army, Navy and Marine planes at Jaluit—Washington reports suggested it might signal a mop-up of bypassed Japanese garrisons in the Marshalls—stood out today in the pattern of Pacific war traced by latest advices over a 4,000 mile wide arc.

The 240-ton bombing occurred during the same 24-hour period that Nipponese on Dutch New Guinea were undergoing their third straight day of heavy aerial attack and others in the Kuriles were being hit by a single Navy search plane.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who has been announcing almost daily moderate air assaults on the few bases left to the Japanese in the mid-Pacific Marshalls, disclosed the unleashing of a terrific punch Sunday (Monday, Marshalls time) at long isolated Jaluit.

The raiders flew 284 sorties. They attacked as low as 50 feet, with Mitchells adding cannon fire and fighters machinegun strafing to the deadly work of the bombs. Nimitz said eight raiders were damaged by anti-aircraft fire but all returned safely.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today announced 200 more tons of bombs were added Monday to the 550 tons dropped the previous two days on enemy defenses at Wakde island and the adjacent Dutch New Guinea coast, 110 miles northwest of Hollandia.

He also reported air blows for the 12th straight day in the Schouten islands, 250 miles beyond Hollandia, where Allied fighters emerged unscathed from a battle in which they shot down five of 20 enemy interceptors.

In the Kuriles, a navy search plane bombed Shimushu, northernmost of these islands, Sunday night (Monday night, Kuriles time).

Chinese Puncture Jap-Held Railway

(By Associated Press)
CHUNGKING, May 17.—Counter-attacking Chinese forces have widened their breach in the Japanese-held Peiping-Hankow railway in Honan province by capturing another station, the third since they began attacking, Central News agency said today.

To the northwest, furious fighting was reported "both inside and outside Loyang," the agency said, an indication that Japanese troops again had gained a foothold in the ancient city from which they had been dislodged after an earlier entry. The agency said the second enemy break-through occurred Monday.

The third station which the Chinese claimed to have taken on the north-south Peiping-Hankow railway was situated south of Chumaitien, previously recaptured, the agency said. North of Chumaitien the Japanese who were dislodged from Suiping, the first railway the counter-attack engulfed, were retreating northeastward.

Meanwhile the Chinese vice minister of foreign affairs, K. C. Wu, told a press conference the new Chinese offensive in western Yunnan far to the south was a factual rebuttal of any statement that China was lagging in her war effort.

If the westward-driving Chinese there could effect a junction with Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Chinese-American forces in northern Burma, he said, "the Burma road will be reopened and a great deal will be done to relieve the economic situation of China."

He added the Yunnan offensive demonstrated what the Chinese forces could do with a little modern equipment.

MILK IS DUMPED BY TWO DAIRIES

YOUNGSTOWN, May 17.—Two Youngstown dairies—the Smith Dairy Co. and the Isaly Dairy Co.—dumped 1,500 gallons of milk Tuesday because they do not have the facilities to dry or condense it and under government orders are not permitted to increase milk sales or use the milk for by-products.

J. H. Heintzelman of the Smith dairy, said his firm has been dumping 500 gallons of milk daily for six weeks. Walter Paulo, general manager of Isaly's said the 1,000 gallons had accumulated in the last few days.

Government regulations, the two men say, limit dairies in the amount of milk that can be sold and also limits the amount that can be used for by-products—ice cream, cottage cheese and other articles.

FOREMEN CALL END TO STRIKE

Association Heeds Plea of Gen. Arnold; 13 Detroit Shops Involved

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 17.—The leadership of the Foremen's Association of America called off a strike today at 13 Detroit war plants, which General H. H. Arnold had termed "one of the most serious setbacks the air force has had since its inception," and, if continued, might enable the German air force to "recover just when it is reeling under our blows."

The board acted within an hour and a half after the chief of the Army Air Forces told the union its strike "may even affect our invasion operations" and after WLB Chairman William H. Davis declared that a war-time strike against the government "can't win."

The foremen's leadership issued this one sentence statement: "The national executive board of the Foremen's Association of America directed officers of the six chapters of the association now on strike to at once call meetings of their members for the purpose of immediate return to work."

The board delivered its decision to Davis at the conclusion of a caucus that interrupted a WLB hearing summoned to determine why the strike had not been terminated.

Allen Among War Prisoners Exchanged Today In Spain

(By Associated Press)
BARCELONA, Spain, May 17.—Larry Allen, Associated Press war correspondent and Pulitzer prize winner, was exchanged today after 20 months as a war prisoner of the Italians and Germans.

Allen was assigned to the British Mediterranean fleet and was captured Sept. 13, 1942, during a commando raid on Tobruk in North Africa when the Destroyer Sikh, on which he was travelling, was sunk. He was taken to an Italian prison camp near Chieti and later fell into German hands after the Italian armistice. The Germans held him in a prison camp in northwestern Poland.

Before his capture he had covered many battles at sea, including a particularly heavy air attack on the Carrier Illustrious in January of 1942. The Cruiser Galatea sank under him the following September and he had a narrow brush with death. His reporting of the war at sea won him the Pulitzer prize for 1941.

He is a native of Mt. Savage, Md., and joined The Associated Press in 1933. Previously, he served on the Baltimore News and on newspapers at Washington, Portsmouth, O., and Huntington, W. Va. He is 36.

He was among 900 American and British war prisoners exchanged for 700 Germans.

Allen walked off the German exchange ship Gradiska, bronzed and smiling, onto a dock crowded with American and British exchange prisoners.

"It is wonderful to breathe fresh air again, but tell Kenner (Ken Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press) that I want to stay at work," He spoke with U. S. Ambassador Carleton Hayes. Allen probably will embark on the Gripsholm.

Allen's newspaperman's enterprise as a prisoner amused even his captors. His first act was to demand an interview with Marshal Erwin Rommel, then the victorious German commander threatening the British naval base of Alexandria.

The rails of the Swastika-flying Gradiska were brown with the uniforms of wounded American and British fighting men who mostly appeared to be in good health and in high spirits.

To reach the dock, the Gradiska came alongside the Swedish liner Gripsholm which brought the Germans from the United States, Britain and North Africa, and the Allied troops called greetings to the Germans. But the Germans were silent, apparently overawed by uniformed Nazi officials who paraded back and forth alongside the Gripsholm.

Many pretty American nurses at the rail of the Gripsholm more than made up for the German muteness, however.

The Gripsholm carried 338 wounded German prisoners and 375 civilians. Aboard the Gradiska were 814 wounded British and 18 American service men and 67 civilians, including some women and children. The civilians are all from North and South America.

Each vessel carries about 200 stretcher cases.

Members arranged to have charge of a bond-selling booth at the local theaters during the Fifth War Loan drive.

Tables for the dinner which preceded the session, decorated with pink tulips and lilacs, were arranged by Mrs. S. F. Sondecke, Misses Rae Heckert and Eva Simpson.

Fall Of Town Held Imminent As Fight Rages

(By NOLAND NORGAARD)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 17.—British units drove northward into the Liri valley toward highway No. 6 behind Cassino today and the fall of that stronghold at last appeared imminent.

Front line dispatches said crack German parachute troops which long had defended that bloody bastion appeared in danger of winding up their careers in the forsaken town.

The Germans have been thrown out of most of their positions across the pillbox and gun-studded Liri valley in swirling tank battles and the entire Gustav line south of that avenue toward Rome has been overrun, Allied headquarters announced.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 17.—The whole southern end of the Germans' Gustav line has been destroyed by the all-out Allied offensive in southern Italy and today the Fifth and Eighth armies pushed on toward the Adolf Hitler line, strong Nazi bastion separating them from the Anzio beachhead—and Rome.

British forces took Pignataro, important strong point four miles southwest of Cassino, in a smashing flank attack.

The American warriors fought their way into Castellonoro, heavily fortified town less than four miles from Formia, finding ruined pillboxes and the streets littered with enemy dead. They also occupied the village of Scuri, on the gulf of Gaeta coastal road four and a half miles from Formia, after a light fight.

Nearly all of the original German positions in the Liri valley now are in Allied hands, an Allied communique announced today, adding, "the battle continues without pause."

The Germans threw tanks and what reinforcements they could scrape together into an effort to save Cassino, now menaced by the capture of Pignataro.

The communique reported the Americans and French were charging forward to "gain contact with the Adolf Hitler line," now roughly four and a half miles ahead of the French who are wiping out the remaining enemy south of the Liri river.

Spectacular Advance

The French continued their spectacular advance, driving two and a half miles southwest from San Giorio in the southern part of the Liri valley, against determined resistance.

Other French forces moving westward from Ausonia seized elevations two and a half miles south of Esperia and prepared an assault on that apparently doomed town.

The 90th Panzer grenadier division—one of the most famous of the German battle units, Afrika korps, which was reformed after the bulk of its veterans were lost in Africa—also was thrown into the fight ahead of the Hitler line and lost many prisoners.

The enemy has been cleared from the area south of Pignataro and the bridgehead over the Rapido now is 5,000 yards deep.

Although heavy bombers were grounded by the weather yesterday for the second successive day, the Mediterranean air force managed to fly 1,800 sorties in support of ground operations. Mediums attacked Ploimbo harbor and the Voltri shipyards while light bombers and fighters continued their blistering attacks on gun positions, troops, roads, bridges and motor transport in the battle area.

Last night RAF Wellingtons continued the assault, hitting Ploimbo again as well as Santo Stefano on the Italian west coast and Portoferraio on the Isle of Elba.

Burial will be in the Mount Zion cemetery near Negley.

Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Pfc. James Rogers Wins Silver Star Medal In Pacific

Pfc. James H. Rogers of Salem, a member of the Medical department, Seventh Infantry division, has been awarded the Silver star for gallantry in the Kwajalein campaign in the Central Pacific, by Brig. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold, Seventh division commander.

Pfc. Rogers, responding to a call for an aid man, ran across open ground raked by enemy fire, to the side of a wounded officer. Although it was necessary for him to remain exposed to the fire, Rogers calmly and efficiently administered to the officer's wounds while enemy bullets ripped the ground around him, a censored dispatch from a Central Pacific base related today.

After Rogers had completed the first aid which was of prime importance in saving the officer's life, he remained with him until the enemy machine gun and rifle fire had been neutralized; then he assisted in the evacuation of his patient, the communication added.

A Model is Murdered - BABS LEE

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

The door of Martinielli's apartment was opened by a tall, dark, handsome man with a cigarette dangling from his lips.

"Hello, Lucky! The boss in?" Inspector Grange asked.

"Maybe. Why d'ya want to see him?" He leaned against the door frame casually tossing a coin up in the air and catching it with clock-like regularity.

"Business," said Grange. Lucky hesitated and stared down at the coin now resting in the palm of his hand. Argus remembered when Ellen had told him about the man who constantly tossed a coin.

"Well, seeing you guys in coppers, I suppose I gotta letcha in," said Lucky. "But de boss won't like it."

"No sir. He's very busy," Argus and Grange followed him through a large hall and as far as the entrance to the living room. An unexpected scene greeted their eyes.

Dancer Martinielli was sitting on the floor watching a toy train whiz around a set of tracks that occupied twelve feet of surrounding carpet.

His stocky body was concealed in a deep purple broadcloth dressing gown. A diamond blazed from his finger. A cigar jutted from the corner of his mouth.

Across the room a blonde in clinging green satin pajamas and housecoat lounged on a sofa, smoking a cigarette.

"For Pete's sake, Dancer, quit playin' with that train, will yuh?" she whined. "You want people to think you're in your second childhood?"

"I always wanted one of dese when I was a kid," Dancer said wistfully. He picked up a lone engine and placed it on the track.

"I'm gonna make 'em have a colic, Watch!" A train of little engines was going around in the opposite direction. Both headed for the single track that went under the tunnel.

"You'll bust the thing before that tunnel of yours ever gets it," objected the blonde.

"Well, Dancer," boomed Grange stepping into the room. "I didn't know we were interrupting your play hour. I would've brought my blocks."

"So it's you," declared Dancer. And my old friend Argus Steele. What d'ya want?"

"Hello, Dancer!" responded Argus, smiling at the blonde.

"Mabel, meet Mr. Steele and Inspector Grange," said Dancer. "What is the idea you two guys bustin' in here?"

"We wanted to ask you a few questions about Syria Verne," answered Grange.

"That dame again!" muttered Mabel. She crushed out her cigarette with an impatient movement, leaving bits of tobacco spilling into the ashtray and a bright red smear around the edge of the butt.

"Shut up, dear!" soothed Dancer. "What about her? She don't have nothing to do with me no more."

Dancer picked up a freight engine and set it on a siding. He connected it with a train of boxcars, oil tankers and gondolas. "Dis oughta be good. Foist dey have a race and den dey have de biggest wreck of de century. Look! Dis is gonna be plenty fun!"

"Very funny," sneered Mabel. "Why did you shoot Syria Verne?" asked Grange suddenly.

The blonde sat up quickly. "What?" roared Dancer. "Say, listen, what's you mugs up to?"

"Syria Verne was murdered last night!" Grange announced solemnly.

"Gee, dat's too bad," said Dancer. "When's de funeral? I'll have to send her a wreath."

While Grange and Martinielli talked, Argus looked around the elaborately furnished room. His glance fell on a package of matchers that bore the legend, Whitson Club. He edged over to them and picked them up. The Whitson was an old conservative club catering to the members of the financial community. He put the matches in his pocket. The blonde watched him. Argus smiled at her and crossed over to the sofa where she was sitting.

"Where'd you get these matches, beautiful? Did Dancer bring them home?"

"So what if he did?" Mabel parried. "Is there a law against it?"

"No," said Argus. "Mind if I sit here?"

The blonde moved over on the sofa to make room for him to sit down. Argus offered her a cigarette, and took one himself. Grange was still arguing loudly with Dancer. As Argus bent over the match he said to Mabel, "I didn't know Dancer was a member of the Whitson Club."

"I don't know nothing about it," he said. "But these matches. When did he bring 'em home?"

"Look, mister, why don'tcha ask him?" Mabel regarded him silkily.

"Sure, I will. I just thought you'd tell me. I'd much rather talk to you, beautiful," Mabel looked bored. She yawned and stretched her arms.

"Oh, yeah?" she said.

"You must play the cornet," said Argus. "You've got some chest expansion!" Mabel tried to look insulted. "By the way," he asked, "did you know Syria Verne?"

"Nope," she snapped.

"But Dancer talks about her a lot, en?"

Mabel didn't answer. Argus leaned over and squeezed her arm. "Well, have another chat some day, beautiful," he said, "without all these mugs around."

"Oh yeah?" sneered Mabel.

Argus turned his attention back across the room to Grange. The Inspector was yelling: "This Verne dame used to work for you, Martinielli, under the name of Lucy Callahan."

"Sure, she used to sing in one of my clubs. Nice girl. So what?"

"That dame again!" muttered Mabel. She crushed out her cigarette with an impatient movement, leaving bits of tobacco spilling into the ashtray and a bright red smear around the edge of the butt.

"Shut up, dear!" soothed Dancer. "What about her? She don't have nothing to do with me no more."

Dancer picked up a freight engine and set it on a siding. He connected it with a train of boxcars, oil tankers and gondolas. "Dis oughta be good. Foist dey have a race and den dey have de biggest wreck of de century. Look! Dis is gonna be plenty fun!"

"Nope," she snapped.

"But Dancer talks about her a lot, en?"

Dancer looked sullen. The trains hadn't collided.

"Maybe she got to know a few things too many about your private business, eh, Dancer?" Grange's voice quieted down.

"What d'ya mean?"

"Some things the D. A. might be interested in knowin'. You wouldn't have anybody hangin' around so they could turn state's evidence, would you? This Syria dame knew plenty."

"Say, where do you get that stuff? We was friends," Dancer declared.

"Sure you were," said the blonde. Argus grinned and winked at her. "I told ja to shut up, see, dear?" Dancer ordered.

"You've been trailing her a long time, Dancer," Grange said. "You threatened her. Last night you bumped her off!"

"What'dja tryin' to do, gimme a laugh?"

"How about it, Argus?" Grange turned to him.

"So that's it," said Dancer, getting up. "Whv, you sneak in' dick! Tryin' to pin a moider rap on me. And where was you when she was bumped off? Listen, Inspector, dis guy used to be in love with Syria until she gave him the go-by. He never got over it."

"Where were you at midnight?" the Inspector asked, ignoring the outburst.

"At the Red Top. Dat's one of my places."

"I know," said Grange. "Funny the boys over there said they hadn't seen you."

"Maybe you didn't ask the right ones," commented Dancer, looking at Grange through narrowed lids.

"Maybe I did," said Grange. "They told me you didn't get to the Red Top until 3 a. m."

"So maybe I was at another club? Am I supposed to remember what time I get places? I'm a busy man, growled Dancer.

"Yeah?" queried Grange. "Well, perhaps I can see that you get a little rest—in jail. Why was one of your men threatening Syria Verne?"

"You're nuts!"

"No," said Argus, joining in. "Syria told me about it. In fact, I think I can even quote what it was. Lucky said to her. It went something like this: You better do it, baby, or the boss says you'll be playin' a harp! She said you were getting in her hair, Dancer."

"I oughta flatten you! Tryin' to pin a moider on me, when you probably done it yourself."

"And it's funny, too—the police should find your fingerprints in her apartment," Argus pursued.

"Dat doesn't mean I was dere last night."

"But you have been there, eh Dancer?" Argus persisted.

"I don't remember," Martinielli replied.

"You were pretty sore when Syria Verne started coming up in the world and skunking movie contracts and didn't want to be bothered with her old pals—particularly one who'd showered her with diamond bracelets in the old days and—"

"So," said Mabel. "You was working these nights, huh? You couldn't take me out because you was too busy—and you come in smelling of perfume."

"Listen, you—I told you the truth. It was business. And you keep your trap shut or I'll fix you so you can't open it again." Dancer threatened, taking a step toward her.

Price Control Affects Household Goods Items

CLEVELAND, May 17.—Persons wishing to sell used household goods, and consumers interested in buying them, were reminded today by the District Office of Price Administration that six articles of used merchandise are under price control even when sold by an individual.

These articles are mechanical refrigerators, gas ranges, washers, vacuum cleaners, typewriters and bed springs.

OPA suggests that any person planning to sell one of these articles find out the legal ceiling by calling his local War Price and Rationing board. Many complaints of overcharging are being received by local boards and the district office, the OPA said.

The Hottentots of South Africa are an individual race whose origin archaeologists and anthropologists have been unable to trace.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel headachy after eating? ☐
Do you get sour or upset easily? ☐
Do you feel tired—listless? ☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested, lie sour and heavy within you.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's, taken as directed, aid digestion after Nature's own order. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢. You'll be glad you did.

Prices include federal tax.

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

The War Food administration (WFA) today tackled the task of getting a pretty well-fed public to worry about where its next year's meals are coming from. It's an important job, says the WFA, because of what the agency described as a nationwide feeling that the food production battle has been won. Such feelings, the WFA emphasizes, constitute over-optimism.

FOURTH TERM

The President has said little more than nothing once more about the fourth term situation but the Democrats nevertheless are pushing unrelentingly toward a nomination of Mr. Roosevelt. At his news conference he smilingly brushed aside questions about the plying of delegates to him. The chief executive, however, Oklahoma congressmen said didn't "seem angry" when they told him that the state's 22 convention votes had been sealed for a fourth term.

DIVORCES

Rep. Poulson (R., Calif.) proposes a constitutional amendment to bar "quickie" divorces for what he refers to as "rich people, particularly of the Hollywood motion picture crowd". The amendment, which would provide generally for home state proceedings, would "do away" with all the Reno foolishness, says Poulson.

Buy a Live Plant, Not Dead One, Is Advice of Expert

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 17.—Buyers of trees, shrubs and roses should make certain they are getting live plants, an Ohio State university specialist warned today.

"Many of these bushes and trees," said Victor H. Ries, horticulture specialist, "are long since dead. Some have been packaged so long they have died on the shelves or in storage. One reason for this is that many of the stores have help not acquainted with the necessity of watering and caring for these plants."

He cautioned prospective buyers to "nick" the stems of such stock with the fingernail. If the cut in the bark shows green, the plant is alive. If it shows brown, the plant is dead.

Many shrubs and trees are so de-vitalized by long storage they require an exceptionally long time to start root growth, Ries said.

To those who see startling rose bush bargains advertised, he offered a word of caution:

"If you expect roses to bloom this year, it is only safe to buy potted, growing roses this late in the season. There are some exceptions, it is true, but most dormant roses purchased in stores this late in the planting season will not produce blooms this year, and probably 75 per cent of them will not even live."

MOTHER IS

AS MOTHER DOES

(By Associated Press)
STRAITFORD—ON—AVON — A young flight sergeant from New York edged timidly over to a young Red Cross worker with a bouquet of flowers. "Would you mind being my mother for today?" he asked. "If she were here, I'd give her these." The Red Cross worker congratulated the sergeant, and talked with him for a few minutes before she was called away. But the sergeant was right after her. "If my mother were really here," he called, "she'd kiss me."

TOO REALISTIC

GEYSERVILLE, Calif. — Geyserville, population 450, is back to normal after a realistic air raid drill caused by the prank of a 19-year-old youth. Walking down Main street, he pulled the town's black-out switch, throwing all Geyserville into blackness. Further along, he ran across the air-raid siren switch. The result—six months suspended sentence and $50 fine.

District Track Meet Here Saturday Will Be Largest In State

Twenty-Two High Schools To Vie For N.E.O. Honors In 14-Event Meet At Stadium

Reilly stadium will be the scene of the state's largest district track meet Saturday when 22 high schools will bring approximately 300 athletes to Salem to decide which athletes from the Northeastern Ohio area are to take part in the annual state meet at Columbus May 26 and 27.

Fred Cope, Salem High track coach, said that in all probability winners of the first four places in each event will win the right to a try at state honors in Columbus. This procedure is a change over past meets here when only two entries in each event won the Columbus trip.

This change, Cope said, comes as a result of the exceptionally large Salem meet in comparison with district affairs elsewhere in Ohio. Most of the similar affairs have as a top, 12 teams participating, while there will be almost twice that number here.

Entered in the event this year are six Akron schools—North, East, South, West, Buchtel and Garfield. Also coming are Warren, Struthers, Ravenna, Barberton, East Liverpool, East Palestine, Newton Falls, Louisville, Boardman, Canton's McKinley and Lehman, Massillon, Niles, Cuyahoga Falls and Rayen. Salem finishes the list of 22.

Again favored this year will be the powerhouse from Akron North, Salem and Akron East are picked to battle it out for second with Boardman and Louisville in there for next places.

North recently captured the honors at the Canton McKinley relays over the same field. Salem got third and Akron East second there, but Cope expects a better showing from his team Saturday.

Fritz P. Mullins has been named honorary referee of the meet, which will get underway at about 9 a. m., following a meeting of the coaches at 8:45, Cope said.

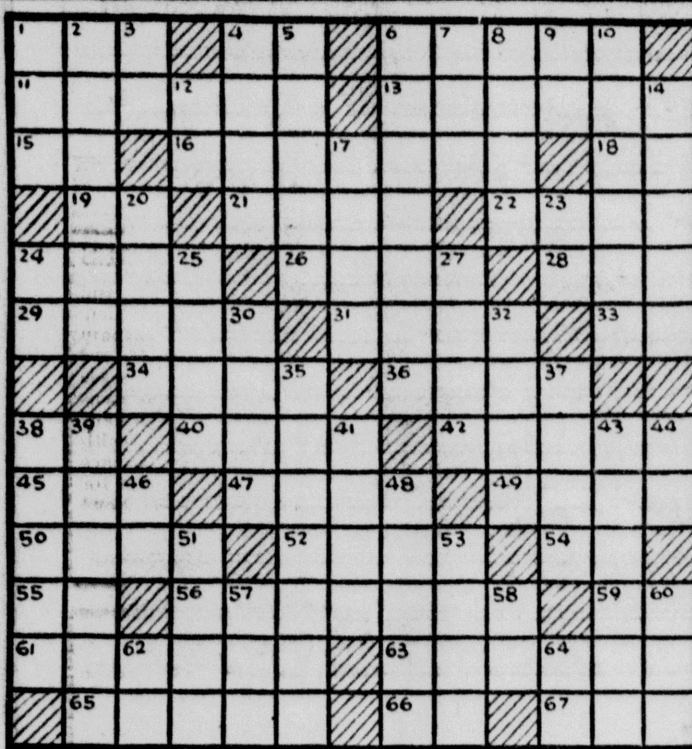

Other officials and titles are: Referee and clerk of course, Dave Williams of Youngstown; assistant referee, Ralph K. Zimmerman; chief track inspector, H. Larry Brown of Ravenna; judge of jumps, Paul Dodez; judge of weights, W. Bruce Hamm of Youngstown; custodian of awards, Miss Winifred Ospek; announcer, Ralph Phillips; starter, John Russ of Youngstown; finish judge, H. C. Warner of Warren; chief timer, Joe Kelley; chief scorer, Don Beattie.

Assistant to Kelley will be Loran Matthews, Mike Schuller and Joe Morbito of Youngstown. Cope said additional judges and assistants will be named before the meet Saturday.

Boardman won the meet last year by nosing out Akron North by one point.

Preliminaries will be over in most events before noon. Finals in the discus and shot put will finish up in the morning but all other finals will be run off in the afternoon, starting at 1:30. The meet last year was over by 6 p. m., so no performances under the lights are expected.

Jim Primm Connects Four Times In Four Trips To the Plate

Winning their first game of the year, 5-1, the 1943 championship Recreation team bowled over the Mullins Class A entry yesterday at Centennial park. Rain halted the play of the Demings-Sheens battle in the second inning of the late game.

Jim Primm, left fielder for the Recreation team, stole the honors for the day by slapping out four singles in four trips to the plate. The speedy outfielder connected in the first inning and scored the first run and repeated in the third inning to drive in two more.

Blanked 6 Innings
The Recreation started things off with a bang in the first half of the initial frame by scoring three times. Mullins came back in their half with one run and then were held scoreless by Pitcher Ralph Gregg, who scattered their eight hits well enough to blank them for six innings.

Pitcher Pauline of Mullins allowed just eight hits, but good grouping and a pair of errors made the bingles count for the winners. Balta laid out a homer in the first for the lone Mullins tally.

The league vacations until Thursday evening when Sheens meet Paxsons at 6 p. m. and the Salem Chinas face the News at 7. Both the News and Chinas have one win and the two other squads have each lost a game. The lineups:

Indian Relief Hurler Turns In Seven Good Frames, Loses Game

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 17.—Manager Lou Boudreau had one consolation today as he grappled with the problem of rousing his Cleveland Indians out of a six-game losing streak.

It was the knowledge that he had found another starting pitcher in Steve Gromek, a former infielder who virtually had become a forgotten man among the Indians.

The 14-year-old recruit right hander shut out the Washington Nationals with two singles for 7 1/3 innings last night but the Nats had slugged his

HOLD RATION CLERK IN COUPON THEFTS

CLEVELAND, May 17.—Robert A. Dissauer, clerk of Cuyahoga county's largest ration board, was charged in a federal warrant today with "feloniously purloining . . . 5,000 T (gasoline) ration coupons and a ration bank certificate representing 538,000 gallons of gasoline."

Assistant District Attorney Lee Howley said the charge resulted from an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, police and Office of Price Administration authorities of reports of defalcations of ration stamps at ration board No. 6. The warrant was sworn to by Rollin Childs, chief OPA gasoline rationing investigator.

Dissauer has been in custody since Monday, in connection with "irregularities" in ration stamp distribution, which police reported he admitted during questioning.

Informed of the federal action this morning, Common Pleas Judge Alva R. Corlett dismissed a habeas corpus action which Dissauer's attorney had filed.

Meanwhile Detective Inspector Frank W. Story declared OPA and Office of Defense Transportation officials may be involved in some of the transactions of coupons by the board, which may involve the theft of a million gallons of gasoline.

German Ace Killed

LONDON, May 17.—Germany's third-ranking fighter ace, Commodore-Col. Walter Oseu, credited by the Germans with shooting down 116 Allied planes, was killed by an American Thunderbolt fighter during a recent daylight raid over Germany, the Berlin radio reported today.

About Town

Discusses Delinquency

Rev. Charles C. Hanks of Lisbon, probation officer for the probate court in the southern part of the county, cited various cases which have been handled by him in a talk on juvenile delinquency at the meeting of the Rotary club Tuesday in the Memorial building.

Environment, poverty and broken homes were cited as the causes of most delinquency cases. Of 955 cases handled by the court in the last 10 years, Rev. Hanks said more than 300 came from broken homes.

The speaker was presented by William Sponseller.

Take Sharp Issue With New Deal, Is Bricker's Appeal

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 17.—The Republican party, in adopting a platform at its national convention in Chicago next month, must take issue with the New Deal and "give the people something to decide," Gov. John W. Bricker asserts.

Bricker, a candidate for the party's presidential nomination, told Ohio's delegates and alternates to the convention last night the GOP could not win in November if it adopted a "me, too" attitude toward the New Deal.

Ninety of the 100 delegates and alternates—all pledged to support Bricker—met with the governor at a dinner.

"I am going to insist that our platform in Chicago shall take issue with the New Deal. We must give the people something to decide. It cannot be done by shouting: 'Me, too,'" Bricker declared.

He expressed the opinion "the election will be decided in the great Mississippi valley." He did not elaborate, but Bricker spokesmen said he no doubt referred to the mid-western states.

Bricker asserted he favored internationalism but not at the expense of this country.

"Our boys are not fighting for any internationalism which jeopardizes our own national interests," he said. "They are not fighting for secret agreements."

At the governor's suggestion the delegation named U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft as the Ohio member of the resolutions committee which will draw up the national platform. Miss Albina Cernak of Cleveland was selected as the state's woman member if the convention approves the proposal for equal representation of women on the committee. Bricker also proposed State Republican Chairman Ed D. Schorr as chairman of the Ohio delegation. The nomination was approved unanimously.

DIRIGIBLE STRIKES HANGAR; 6 KILLED

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—A Navy training airship crashed into the huge hangar at the Lakehurst, N. J., naval training station last night, killing six officers and four enlisted men and injuring an 11th crew member, the Fourth Naval district announced here.

There was no fire, the Navy explained, because the ship—the patrol training type—carried non-inflammable helium gas.

The dirigible crashed into the hangar when student pilots failed to clear the west end of the building during a practice take-off. The envelope ripped, causing the control car to crash 258 feet to a concrete runway, a Navy spokesman said.

An official announcement said the blimp was 250-feet long and carried 416,000 cubic feet of helium. Its crew consisted of six naval aviation officers and five enlisted men. Names of the casualties were withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

The accident occurred on the same field on which the mammoth German Zeppelin Hindenburg, filled with hydrogen, exploded in 1937, killing 31.

sads of feet deep, and it was by bridge across one of these terrifying canyons that the Burma road used to pass.

The Chinese crossed the river at one of the open stretches, using small boats of all sorts. It was a dangerous feat, for the Japanese were holding the western bank. However, the Chinese battled their way ashore on a wide front and heavy fighting has been proceeding.

They must drive perhaps 75 miles through wild mountain country to reach the Burmese border. Then they presumably will aim at the neighboring base of Myitkine (pronounced "Michin-in-auer" for unknown reasons) Towards which our General Joseph Stilwell—he of the square jaw—is driving from the northwest with his American and Chinese troops. Several British contingents also are converging on this base, which is the railroad for the Mandalay railroad and is the main source of supplies for the Japanese.

Capture of this base would force withdrawal of the enemy from the northern tip of Burma.

Monastery Again Hit by Shellfire

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN THE LIRI VALLEY, Italy, May 17.—Hundreds of British guns opened up this afternoon at a series of thousands of rounds of shells screaming into the Benedictine monastery above Cassino.

For sheer concentration of shelling, the barrage probably surpassed that of Thursday night when the Allies opened their offensive with the greatest hail of explosives yet seen on the Mediterranean theater or western Europe in this war.

The bursting shells could not be seen as a low haze which has hung over the battlefield for days persisted.

The monastery, once wrecked by a heavy Allied air bombardment, could not be seen from the valley floor.

necessary in the conversion with the exception of the skilled labor which requires special tools. Chief Malloy expects the new pump to be in use within two or three weeks.

Council last night also passed a resolution approving a new meter-reading arrangement contemplated by the Natural Gas Co. of W. Va. Under the new plan gas meters will be read only once every quarter and monthly bills will be estimated on past use.

J. A. Harwood, gas company manager, explained that manpower shortages were making it impossible for regular meter reading. He said any customer of the company who wished monthly readings would be furnished cards to make computation for mailing to the office.

Want Alley Redeemed

Suggested redeeming to several property owners of an alley running west of Franklin st. near Washington ave intersection, was referred to the streets and alleys committee for consideration and report at the next session.

The solons also authorized City Solicitor Henry Reese to draw up a contract between the city and J. S. Douth for storage of the disabled LaFrance fire truck until disposition can be made. Plans call for the sale of the out-moded vehicle as soon as all usable equipment is salvaged from it.

A request for an additional clerk in the department of health was tabled for future consideration.

Berlin Raided By Mosquito Bombers

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, May 17.—RAF Mosquito bombers blasted Berlin last night, the Air ministry announced today, as the British-based heavy bomber fleets rested up for a renewal of their smashing offensive against Fortress Europe.

The raid, which was carried out without loss, was the first attack on Berlin since the night of May 9, when a great fleet of approximately 750 British bombers smashed at both the German capital and Paris. Last night's attack was carried out despite bad weather.

Britain, meanwhile, had a raid free night as the German air force remained at home after two successive sharp night stabs at the English south coast.

There was no indication of activity over the continent today as the weather, which has brought a lull in the Allied aerial offensive, continued poor.

Empty Gas Drums Save Vessel From Sinking

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Empty gasoline drums saved the Liberty ship Robert F. Hoke when enemy action in the Arabian sea caused an explosion in the hold.

Cadet Midshipman Frank H. Pringle, 1223 Wellesley ave., Steubenville, O., and William H. Mullins, Philadelphia, told the War Shipping administration how the empty drums kept the ship afloat until a sea-going tug appeared. All crew members were saved, and the ship is being repaired.
